Elliott and Ely Debate Need To Alter Law

Constitutional Reform Issue Argued at Town Hall Session

Educator Asks Changes, Politician Says Power Would Not Shift

By Karl Schfiggisser. A professor in white tie and tails and a politician in tuxedo sought out the issue of the need for constitutional reform at Town Hall last night in the joint effort to persuade the audience of the need for the proposed Elliott and Ely bill. The speaker, who identified the Constitution might be reformed, the politicians would still be in there running the Government.

Handsome but Homeless—This Boy

This 14-year-old boy, living in the arms of Mrs. Sally Brown at Children's Hospital, was found abandoned late Saturday in a dilapidated automobile at Twelfth and N streets northwest. Healthily, with curly hair and blue eyes, he is destined to be turned over to the Juvenile Court for registration, or added a ward, unless police find his parents.

Better Spacing Yellow 'Peril' Of Cars, Buses Called Creature Urged by Elgen

Dating his opinion on the testimony adduced at the hearings into the traffic congestion problem in the city to the fact that the traffic law does not conform to the demands he loses control over both the Congress and the country. In order to alleviate these evils he called for more legislation.

Later in the week, commission experts will test results of several technical studies they have made. One set of studies cover the condition of the buses. John R. Reed, District Government chemical, said that the study for the commission found that air in some buses contains as high as 50 parts of carbon dioxide to every 10,000 cubic centimeters. Reed also said that the commission has also had a private firm of ventilating engineers. He said that the commission has also had a private firm of ventilating engineers.

Former Gov. Ely termed most of Dr. Elliott's suggestions "moderate changes" especially in the case of broadening of Federal powers and administration of judicial review to the legislature. With all the force of his training as a prosecuting attorney, Ely nevertheless attacked all of Dr. Elliott's proposals.

United Plea for More Money to Be Made to Congress

Dr. Charles B. Campbell, chairman of the public health committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations, said last night that the program in the past for the federation and the District Medical Society, which was supported by the National Health Commission, had been discontinued.

Says Ruhland Needs Help

"If the Health Department had more funds and more of a corps to inspect and check in particular, and whooping cough in particular, and diphtheria, meningitis, and other diseases, it would be a very excellent job," he says.

District Mortality Rate Can Be Reduced, Says Campbell

Leaders of local civic and health organizations will go to Capitol Hill in a united front this session to seek appropriation putting the expanded Health Department program into effect. It was indicated Saturday.
