Lawyer Finds Defense Sees 'Great Victory'; Wit of Nurse Matches Own

Reilly's Thrusts, Parries of Betty Gow Present a Gripping Drama.

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 7 (AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's battery of lawyers said tonight they had won a "great victory." "That day has our own," Edward J. Reilly, chief of the defense, observed as he left the courthouse after one of the most intensive skirmishes of the trial. Reilly reiterated that he intended naming on Thursday in court the four persons who committed the Lindbergh baby murder. "Hauptmann," he remarked, "certainly will not be among them. In fact, Hauptmann is innocent of any crime, and the defense will prove the extortion charge on which he has been indicted in the Bronx. We are sure of success."

'Victory' on Ladder

Reilly and Frederick A. Pope, a New Jersey associate, expressed satisfaction with the manner in which Justice Trenchard refused to accept as evidence the ladder which the State contends was used by the kidnaper. The defense indicated it intended to fight introduction of the ladder with the State's contention. Reilly assumed a belligerent attitude toward the State officials when it was requested he might be required to testify against Hauptmann. "I am sure," he said, "that the four persons are responsible for the murder of the baby. What are they going to do about it?"

Defense Tells It Lost Nothing

Johnson was questioned during the kidnaping investigation and later deported for illegal entry. At the time of his interrogation he was asked about the fact that a milk bottle had been found in a car which he had driven to the scene. The nurse, who was summoned to Hopewell from the Morrow estate with Johnson, refused to testify, with the baby, also said she had not seen Johnson. She telephoned the night of the kidnaping. Johnson telephoned from Englewood, and told Reilly about 8:30 p. m. shortly after Col. Lindbergh had returned to the Morrow estate. The nurse planned to leave for Hartford, Conn., next morning.

Q. I suppose you wanted to say good-bye to him?—A. Yes. Q. How long did you talk to him?—A. Oh, not more than five minutes. Q. At another time, she sent the coroner a letter in which she said she was very sorry that she had not seen Johnson. "How, you are a very bright young lady, aren't you?" she wrote back.
